

NABITA Structured Interview for Violence Risk Assessment (SIVRA) Training & Certification Course Sample Agenda

Description:

The Structured Interview for Violence Risk Assessment (SIVRA-35) is a 35-item inventory that is used to assist behavioral intervention team members and clinical staff in conducting a more thorough and research-based violence risk assessment. The SIVRA-35 is designed to assess the risk and protective factors related to an individual's willingness to engage in violence.

Learning Outcomes:

Participants will learn...

- How to administer the tool in an interview through narrative, structured questions with individuals exhibiting a range of concerning behaviors
- How to conduct a more standardized, research-based violence risk assessment with individuals determined to be at an increased risk
- A quantitative, numeric scoring key to assist in decision-making
