

Violence Risk and Threat Assessment Professional Development Series

Engaging in ongoing professional development is an important practice for any practitioner. For those serving as members of the BIT or engaging in violence risk and threat assessment practices, it is important to seek out professional development opportunities on best practices in the field and to be well trained on implementing and conducting assessments. We have developed “BIT in a Box,” a comprehensive guide for implementing, developing, and enhancing a BIT/CARE team. The BIT in a BOX: Threat Assessment Professional Development Series is particularly useful for practitioners on the BIT who are looking to enhance their practices and increase their knowledge about conducting violence risk and threat assessments. To help BIT members streamline and improve their processes, BIT in a Box also includes over 25 templates and sample forms and resources, allowing staff to have pre-made, ready to go, threat assessment and BIT/CARE team forms.

BIT in a Box is written and structured for the practitioner with the hope that it is user friendly, easy to digest, and most importantly applicable. This professional development series consists of 7 modules designed to enhance your professional knowledge on case management in higher education. Areas of focus include defining violence risk and threat assessment, objective assessment tools available, strategies and skills for conducting an assessment, assessing threats in writing or on social media, and applying these concepts to case studies. This professional development series has grouped a mix of NaBITA's resources including, research articles, tip sheets, demonstration videos, webinars, whitepapers, etc., so that you can quickly and easily access what you need to enhance your violence risk and threat assessment knowledge.
